Worried about stained teeth?

What is AIR-Flow jet polishing?

AIR-FLOW uses air and water pressure to deliver a controlled stream of specially processed powder in a slurry to remove stains from tooth surfaces. This is a very gentle process. AIR-Flow treatment is seen as the next level of cleaning over a usual scale and polish, and has been proven to really tackle those stubborn stains.

What are the advantages of AIR-Flow treatment?

- Removes dental plaque and hence helps preventing periodontal diseases such as gingivitis or periodontitis.
- Removes teeth stains and disinfects mouth.
- Helps maintain implants.
- Cleans prior to whitening treatment and used for whitening maintenance.
- Cleans prior to bonding orthodontic brackets and used for maintenance during treatment.

Are there any risks involved with the AIR-Flow treatment?

No. AIR-Flow uses no chemicals and it is a non-invasive treatment to clean your teeth:

- Does not damage teeth or surrounding tissues.
- The powder used in the AIR-Flow system is non-toxic and therefore non-harmful if ingested by accident.
- AIR-Flow treatment is not painful; what is more it is rather comfortable for the patient, especially for patients with sensitive teeth.
